Jade Mountain Prophecy

Beware the darkness of dragons,

Beware the stalker of dreams,

Beware the talons of power and fire,

Beware one who is not what she seems.

Something is coming to shake the earth,

Something is coming to scorch the ground.

Jade Mountain will fall beneath thunder and ice,

Unless the lost city of night can be found.

Prologue

Starcharter raced through the sky, her black, silver-speckled wings ripping a tear in the bright, autumn sun. She broke into a dive in midair, her plum purple scales taking in the rays of sunshine as she frantically flapped to the shoreside.

Her dragonet was tucked safely inside a few scraps of fabric she had salvaged from her rush to get here.

She dove into the cold waters of the Sea Kingdom, where Coho was waiting for her.

She swam in a circle. Her eyes scanning the rolling waves and the turning tides.

"Stop right there, NightWing!" Called a distant voice. "You're under arrest for violation of the SeaWing-NightWing Peace Treaty."

Starcharter felt a sweat bead roll down her snout. No, please. Moons, no, this cannot be happening. Of course, Starcharter knew she and Coho had violated the treaty but she needed to get her dragonet to safety.

"Momma?" The little dragonet poked her snout out from the makeshift sling.

Starcharter looked down, "Oh, Teardrop, my dear, you need to run. You need to go find Daddy and tell him that Momma will be home by sundown. Got it, my little jellyfish?"

"B-but Momma..." Teardrop was looking up at her mother, tears welling in her little violet eyes.

Starcharter craned her neck to see that the SeaWing guard was approaching ever closer, "No buts, my jellyfish."

"Put your claws where I can see them!"

Starcharter placed a tender kiss upon her daughter's nose, "Go, now!" She commanded her daughter. Teardrop jumped from her place next to her mother's chest, her little wings beating vigorously against the salty sea air.

Coho knew his daughter was sad, but he waited with her for sundown. He as waiting as well for Starcharter's return, but when sundown passed he continued to wait. Past midnight. Past the first day. Past the first week. Past the next three months.

But Starcharter never came.

Hey guys! Here's a new book for you guys! Please follow and give a thank you to @The_FanWing for creating the prologue! Have a great day or night!

Chapter 1- Part 1: Welcome To Jade Mountain Academy

"Teardrop! Fly faster! You're going to be late!" My father shouted from in front. He soared down closer to the ever-so-intimidating Jade Mountain.

I was always a timid and independent dragon growing up and that's how I learned to depend on myself rather than others. As I soared down towards the mountain I could see dragons of all different colors, ranging from pink to green, and many others. We landed on a small cliff that overlooked all of the new students and parents saying goodbye.

"Okay, Teardrop. Remember to make some friends and stay out of trouble." My father said, lighting up his bioluminescent scales. "I love you very much my little jellyfish. Have a great year at school!"

"Bye, father." I mumbled. He embraced me in a big hug and then gasped.

"It's the royal SeaWings!" he exclaimed, letting go of me and turning to face his queen.

"Who are those hybrids she's with?" I asked, admiring the beautiful white and blue dragons.

"Not sure. Bye!" he said before he flew off to head back to our home.

I flew down to where some dragons were gathered and I broke into a dive midair and landed softly. I glanced over my shoulder and my eyes locked onto the SeaWing prince's green eyes. I blushed and looked away as fast as I could. He seems nice. I told myself. I should get to know him. I started to walk towards the entrance when I was stopped by a very energetic and bubbly NightWing.

"HELLO! Let me guess...your...hmmm...Teardrop? Aren't you?" she asked, a big smile on her face.

"Um yes that's me" I whispered, staring down at the ground

"I'm mysteriously good at guessing. Kinda like I'm reading your mind. Eh?" she joked. "Just kidding! Maybeee..."

"Oh ok!" I said, giggling a little bit.

"I'm Fatespeaker! I'm not a teacher or anything. I'm just here to help whenever it's needed. Here's your welcome scroll and your map." she said, handing me two scrolls tied off with a gold ribbon.

We walked through the large opening and I gasped at the size of the vast cave. I couldn't ever form words.

"Welcome to Jade Mountain Academy! Here is the great hall! Want to meet some of your fellow classmates?" she said. I shook my head, I had a little bit of social anxiety.

{WC: 441}

Hello, my fellow readers! Here's the first chapter for you guys! I did take a look at @The_FanWing's book WSS for some inspiration on how to write based on a book and it really helped. go follow her she's my bestie and she's not underrated! Be sure to be on the lookout for my next chapter! Have a great day or night!!

Chapter 2

"So Teardrop. It says you're in Jade Winglet so your cave is the second tunnel on the left, third cave on the right. You should be sharing a cave with the other hybrid Skua." she said. I smiled, another hybrid! That sounds awesome!

"Thanks! I'll see you around!" I said with a small squeak. I trailed off and decided it would be better to go see my cave.

Remember the third cave on the left. third cave on the left. As I got closed to my cave I noticed that someone was watching me. I took a small glance over my shoulder and saw the SeaWing prince and one of the hybrids. Say hello. It shouldn't be that hard. I stopped and turned around to face them.

"H-Hello." I managed to stutter out. "Are you guys a-apart of Jade Winglet?"

"I believe so. My name is Princess Skua, but you can call me just Skua." the hybrid said. She sounded a little like she wanted to intimidate me but I ignored it.

"Nice to meet you. And you must be Prince Turtle?" I asked the frightened-looking SeaWing who was pressed up against Skua.

"Yeah that's right," he said, his cheeks turning as red as rubies.

"I'll see you around," I said before ducking into my cave.

The sight of the cave was rather pleasant and felt somewhat like home. I figured you had to pick where you were going to sleep so I dropped my things off at a small ledge with moss bedding.

"Hi! You must be one of my clawmates!" a high-pitched voice said that almost made me fall off the ledge.

"Hello. Who are you?" I asked curiously.

"My name is Kinkajou! I think you're the hybrid right? Or one of them?!" she said turning a bright shade of yellow that was practically blinding.

I hopped off the ledge to face the RainWing. She was small and only seemed about 3 years old. She grabbed my talon and raced out of the cave.

"Can I show you the library? Or the music room?" she said dragging me down the hall. "Let's go to the library!"

She scampered down the tunnel dragging me with her. We raced past many rooms that looked similar to mine.

"Um. Kinkajou? Can I go explore on my own?" I asked. She paused and turned teal color.

"Yeah...that's ok," she said, letting go of my talon and bolted down the tunnel.

I walked down the hallway and I started to hear faint whispering and voices talking. I followed the noise and found myself at the entrance to the cafeteria.

SQWAUKKKKKK!

"EVERYONE, STOP MOVING! ESPECIALLY YOU, CHICKENS!! CHICKENS, GIVE UP! WE'RE GOING TO EAT YOU! THERE'S NOTHING YOU CAN DO ABOUT IT! STOP RUNNING AWAY RIGHT NOW!" I heard Clay yell.

I made my way towards the small pool of water that was full of fresh fish when a large IceWIng pushed past me. I shivered as his scales hit mine. Why are they so cold?! My eye caught sight of a large cod swimming around the edge of the pool of water. With one quick move, the cod was flipping around in my talon.

"GRAB IT!" Somebody yelled.

"QUICK CATCH IT!" another dragon roared.

I turned around to see a small scavenger running around and other dragons trying to catch it. I felt a small talon brush past my tail and saw a large group of dragonets running toward the small creature. Luckily, a small frail NightWing grabbed the poor thing.

"HEY NIGHTWING!" an icy voice hissed. "YOU HAVE TEN SECONDS TO GIVE ME BACK MY SCAVENGER BEFORE I SLICE YOUR FACE OFF!"

"No" the NightWing whispered only faintly.

"FIVE SECONDS! THIS IS MY SCAVENGER BUT MY IDIOT CLAWMATE LET HIM OUT!" he hissed. I could see the small ice crystals beginning to form in his breath.

"No," she said again.

"I COULD FREE YOU ONE PART AT A TIME-FIRST YOU HORNS. THEN SNAP THEM OF-" he started to hiss before he was cut off by a handsome-looking SandWing pushing in front of him.

"Hey, calm down, all right? No one is getting sliced up or frozen and snapped apart," he said in a calming voice that seemed to ease the NightWing. "I'm the idiot clawmate although I usually go by Qibli."

I turned away from the scene and took a large chomp out of the cod I had caught earlier. I headed toward the door and accidentally bumped into Skua.

"Hey, Skua!" I said with a grin on my face.

"Oh hey. Sorry, I never got your name. What is it?" she asked.

"Teardrop," I replied. "I think I'm going to head to the library to study till sunset."

"Ok! See you tomorrow!" she said walking towards the pool of water.

I walked down the tunnel and took a sharp turn to the left to head to the library. I hoped it would be a nice place to relax after all that had happened on my first day. As I stepped through the door I was greeted by a small blind NIghtWing at the front desk which I knew was Starflight.

"Hello! Are you Teardrop?" he asked as I got closer.

"Yep that's me," I replied.

"Here's your library card and if you need anything please let me know," he said smiling. He handed me a small wood carven card and I put it in my pouch. I flew up to one of the ledges and opened up one of the scrolls I had received when I first arrived.

☆○o。 。o○☆

After about 4 hours of reading and studying I decided it would be better for me to get some sleep. As I walked into the sleeping cave I was surprised to see Skua sleeping in a small pool of water. Quietly I hopped onto the ledge and laid my head down. Just before my eyes fluttered shut, I felt a tapping on my shoulder. I opened my eyes and saw Prince Turtle with a smile on his face.

"Do you want to go down to the moon pools with me?" he asked, blushing uncontrollably.

"When?" I asked. I could feel my cheeks burning.

"Right now!" he said, giggling.

"I would love to!" I replied. I never thought I would be able to respond to him. But I did. I over came my biggest fear.

Talking to my crush

Chapter 3

The SeaWing prince grabbed my talon as I hopped off of the small ledge. He guided me through the tunnels and down toward the moon pools. As we got closer I could hear the water crashing up against the rocks and sliding back down again. As we turned the last corner I gasped. The water was glowing and the walls had thousands of glow worms, glowing at full brightness.

"Here we are," he said, he let go of my talon and dived into the water.

I was about to dive in with him but I suddenly remembered that I didn't know how to swim. Since my father Coho was so worried about me going outside he never bothered to teach me how to swim.

"Um, Turtle," I said. I took a deep breath and calmed myself down. "I don't know how to swim."

"What do you mean you don't know how to swim?" he said jokingly.

"My father never taught me. He was worried if I ever showed myself to the ocean the SeaWings would kill me and he never let me out of the cave!" I said with much expression in my voice.

"I'll help you," he said. I stepped into the pool of water and Turtle grabbed my talon, guiding me deeper into the water.

"I'm scared, Turtle!" I exclaimed as we got to wing deep water.

"Don't worry I got you," he said putting a wing around me and helping me float.

We swam deeper until I couldn't touch the bottom any longer. I could feel my heart beating out of my chest and my cheeks burning like a fire.

"I'm going to let you go and see if you can swim," Turtle said slowly letting his wing drop.

I could feel my body sinking deeper and deeper as Turtle removed his wing. I screamed in fear and splashed the water with my wings.

"Hey calm down!" Turtle said.

"I can't do this!" I cried. I stopped splashing and let my body sink into the water.

I had no idea if I could breathe underwater since I never got the chance to swim. As my head submerged under the dark water I felt my lungs gasping for air. I opened my eyes to reveal Turtle grasping my talons and jerking me upwards. As my head broke the surface I gasped for air.

"Are you alright!?" He asked.

"I think so but I wanna go back to my sleeping cave," I admitted.

"That's fine with me. I'll see you tomorrow," he said swimming me back to the rock ledges.

I ran through the tunnels and back to my sleeping cave where I hopped onto the ledge. I laid down and closed my eyes. Moments later I drifted off into a deep sleep.

Chapter 4

"IT'S MORNING! ISN'T THAT WONDERFUL!!" a squeaky and high-pitched voice exclaimed.

"Ugh, Kinkajou...." I grumbled

"It is the opposite of wonderful." Skua hissed.

"We get to meet our winglet today!" Kinkajou went on. "I can't wait to see who will be in it! I know you, Moon, Skua, and the grumpy SkyWing are in Jade Winglet with me!"

"Awesome," I said sarcastically.

"We're supposed to become friends. And then we'll understand all the tribes! And nobody will ever want to go to war again!" she said happily. "I can't wait to meet our SeaWing! They sound so weird!"

I jumped off the ledge and started to walk towards the exit before I was stopped by Kinkajou. What does she want now? I just want to go to the library.

"We can't leave yet! We have our first class with our winglet!" she exclaimed, jumping up and down.

GONG!! GONG!!

"That's the first warning! LET'S GO! LET'S GO!!. HURRY UP DRAGONS!" she yelled.

I ran out the door and managed to get stuck between a grumpy SkyWing and a light green SeaWing. I followed Kinkajou down the hallway and we took a sharp turn into a large cave with an open window. There was a waterfall that crashed down into a small pool. A sign on the wall read: CLASSROOM WITH TSUNAMI. My stomach gurgled and I remembered I didn't eat breakfast.

"Welcome! Hello, you must be Kinkajou, Moon, and Carneilen."

Tsunami said as they sat down. I froze looking around the room. "Hey, you must be one of the hybrids! What's your name sweetie?"

"T-Teardrop." I stuttered sitting down next to Kinkajou and Moonwatcher.

"Skua!" Tsunami suddenly exclaimed embracing Skua in a hug.

"You seem to be doing well with remembering everyone's name! That's great sis!" Skua said. She shot me a glare and sat down next to Carneilen. A small MudWing came through the door and Kinkajou gasped.

"OH! You're Umber, right? Clay's brother?" she asked welcoming him into the classroom.

"That's right." he said smiling. I looked over at Moon and she had a smile starting to form on her face.

"Oh good! Here comes the last pair. After yesterday, we decided to switch around a bit. You're all interested in scavengers, so it seemed like a good match." Tsunami said as Qibli and Winter entered the classroom.

I sighed heavily and remembered how mean Winter was to poor Moon. They both sat down and I looked over at Skua and her cheeks were starting to turn a bright pink. Oooh someone's in love.

"Let's introduce ourselves. Maybe it's unnecessary, but Sunny said we should. And then she said I probably won't listen to her, so there." Tsunami sighed. "I'm Tsunami. I was going to call myself 'Commander of The Recruitment', but everyone voted that I would be terrible at recruiting and made me head of the school instead."

"What if I prefer to be with dragons from my tribe? Such as my sister." Winter hissed.

"Are we stuck with this group?" Carnelian said, her voice louder than Winter's.

"That's not how I'd put it, Carneilen, but yes," Tsunami answered, rolling her eyes.

"When do we get to eat?" Umber asked, trying to hold in a laugh. "Just kidding! I'm pretending to be Clay."

"Right...Introductions! Carneilen would you like to go first?" Tsunami asked.

"I'm Carneilen," she said with a numb look on her face. I must have zoned out because when I regained focus, Moonwatcher was speaking.

"I'm Moonwatcher. but please, call me Moon" she started to say. "Um. I grew up in the rainforest. And um I like scrolls."

"Me too. At least, I like scrolls that weren't written by my Mother. I've read way too many. I'm Turtle." The SeaWing prince added on. I could see Turtle giving Moon a loving look and I could feel the jealousy surge through my body.

I felt like I was about to pass out when Qibli started talking. All of these dragons made me feel sick. My vision started to go blurry and I collapsed onto the cold stone floor of the classroom.

"TEARDROP!!" Kinkajou screamed turning light green in fear. "SOMEONE HELP HER! TAKE HER TO THE MEDIC!!"

The last thing I saw before passing out was the emerald eyes of Prince Turtle.

TURTLE X TEARDROP!!!!!!!

Chapter 5

I could feel a draft coming from my right as I slowly regained consciousness. My eyes fluttered open and the medic's cave came into view. I scanned the room hoping no one was watching me as I awakened.

"Oh, Teardrop!" a familiar and small voice exclaimed. I glanced over my shoulder and saw Turtle starting to come my way.

"H-How long have you been waiting here?" I asked still a little dizzy.

"Only about an hour. Everyone was so worried when you collapsed," he said. "Tsunami and I carried you to the medic's cave while Qibli and Skua calmed Kinkajou down."

"Thank you Turtle," I said. I could feel my cheeks burning.

"It's lunchtime! We better head off to the cafeteria!" Turtle yelled as he ran out of the cave.

I got up out of the triangular bed and walked to the cafeteria. Dragons of all different colors and sizes piled out of the caves and headed down to the cafeteria. As I walked through the entrance I was greeted by Kinkajou.

"Come over here Teardrop!" She squealed turning all different colors. I approached them slowly admiring them each one by one.

Winter gave me an icy look from across the room and continued to eat his fish. Qibli and Moon were talking and Skua was sitting next to Qibli giving Moon a sour look.

"So Qibli why did your family hate you so much?" Skua asked still glaring at Moon.

"Oh. They sort of hate everyone. It's no big deal." He responded looking down. I looked over at Moon and she looked a little dazed.

"So can you tell us more?" Skua asked.

"I joined the Outclaws at three. The best news of my life is I'll never have to see my family again," he said with a serious look on his face.

"I'm going to the library," Moon said abruptly.

"No! We're eating together! You haven't finished your hair, smelly, carcass thing!" Kinkjou whined.

"Sure...ok," Moon said quietly sitting back down. Kinkjou turned a bright and blinding shade of pink and spread her wings wide.

"Can you tone that down, Kinkajou? It's a very exciting color that I've never seen before. But it's a little bright?" Umber said covering his eyes.

"Eyeball scorching." Qibli joked.

"It happens when I'm happy! But if you prefer something more..." she said toning it back down to a light green mixed with some yellow. "Sedate.."

"AH!" Qibli yelled covering his eyes.

"Kinkajou! Stop!" I said giggling. Winter passed us and Kinkjou squealed.

"WINTER! WANNA SIT HERE? WITH YOUR WINGLET I MEAN?" she asked.

"Absolutely not!" he hissed.

"He's so tortured" Kinkajou sighed clutching her heart.

"Your a little weird" I joked

"DON'T YOU SEE THAT THIS IS THE SEAWING PRINCESS?" Someone roared from across the cave.

I turned to look and saw some SeaWings fighting about a NightWng having a fish that Princess Anemone wanted. A large MudWIng came up to us followed by a frail and nervous-looking MudWing.

"Marsh!" Umber exclaimed with a big smile on his face.

"Yep! Soras behind me." the MudWing who I assumed was named Marsh said.

Moon greeted the MudWing named Sora and offered her some goat. Clay came up to us and started to chat with the other MudWIngs.

"Who's in your winglet Sora?" Clay asked.

"Well, there's a blind RainWing who seems nice." She said before she was interrupted by Kinkjou.

"That's Tamirin! She's my best friend!" she exclaimed.

"A SandWIng named Onyx. A SkyWing with a scar across his face...That SeaWIng over by the princess...And a NightWing called Bigtail." she continued. "and that's my clawmate Icicle." I looked over and saw Winter with other IceWIngs sitting on a ledge where Sora pointed to.

"Winter's sister? Has she been mentioned for the throne?" Qibli asked.

"I-I'm going to the library anyone want to come?" I asked.

"Teardrop...I will" A nice voice said from behind me.

And when I turned around I saw:

Prince Turtle.

{WC: 656}

Hey guys! I am so sorry for the wait for this chapter! I have been super busy and I had a little bit of writer's block. I hope you guys like it!

Chapter 6

WARNING: YOU MAY EXPERIENCE CUTENESS OVERLOAD WHEN READING THIS CHAPTER. CONTINUE READING AT YOU OWN RISK.

I walked down the long tunnel with the love of my life. It was quiet most of the walk there and something inside of my head urged me to say something.

"Have you ever been to the library?" I asked.

"Yeah. I like the leaf windows. It's really...um..what's the word" he stuttered.

"Relaxing?" I added.

"Yeah," he said turning to look me in my violet eyes.

We took a sharp turn and headed to the entrance of the library. Starflight was at the front desk organizing scrolls and stamping library cards.

"Hello?" he said. He turned to face us with a smile on his face. Oh, he's blind! I totally forgot!

"It's Teardrop," I said. "...and Prince Turtle."

Turtle nudged me and I could see he was holding in a laugh. He looked so relaxed and free. Like he finally belonged somewhere.

"How are you guys? How was the morning class?" He asked.

"It was um interesting," I said.

"Teardrop missed some of the class because she fain-." Turtle blurted before I grabbed his snout. He let out a small cry that turned into a laugh.

"Starflight? Do you have any scrolls on the NightWing powers?" I asked letting go of Turtle.

"Yep. Follow me this way." We weaved through the many shelves of scrolls before stopping in front of one. Tap tap tap. Starflight tapped each one of the scrolls. Tap tap tap. "Here. This one has a bit about the NIghtWings Powers and a bit about DarkStalker"

I grabbed the scroll out of his talons and flew up to one of the stone ledges. Turtle followed a little stumbly as he flew up. We landed and I laid down on the moss bedding. I opened the scroll and began reading.

NightWings hatched under one full have the power of mind-reading or prophecy, and those hatched under two have both. hatched under three full moons will have both of these powers, which have been made stronger by the third moon. NightWings once thought that the third full moon gave, though this was later disconfirmed, as animus powers are passed on genetically. The power of the gifts vary, such as having strong foresight. When the NightWings moved to the volcanic island, knowledge of these powers was forgotten, possibly on purpose. NightWing eggs touched by moonlight will turn an eerie polished silver color, while untouched eggs remain an ebony black.

Mind-reading NightWings can observe the thoughts of those around them. They cannot 'rummage around' in another dragon's head, but hear thoughts as the dragon thinks them, often only picking up on jumbled words, pictures, and emotions; thoughts are louder and stronger to the mind reader when they are touching the former. In the time of Darkstalker, dragonets were taught ways to block out the minds of others, though this practice was lost over time without powers. Mind readers can project their thoughts to one another to have mental conversations, and powerful mind readers may be able to block the visions of prophets. Dragons with this power hatched under a blood moon can project their thoughts to any dragon, not just other mind readers.

Prophetic NightWings can see flashes and visions of the future. On occasion, they will have a true prophecy, which will manifest as words rather than a vision in the dragon's head. In the time of Darkstalker, prophets would sometimes take regular visions and translate them to sound like real prophecies. Very powerful prophets may be able to look into the future and follow individual timelines. Futures have been described as 'webs', as they overlap and are easily mixed up. Prophets hatched beneath a blood moon can see terrible events and natural disasters with particular clarity. When NightWings deliver prophecies, their eyes glow and their voices become low and shivery.

I suddenly felt something heavy rest over my body. I looked up from the scroll to see to my surprise: Prince Turtle resting his wing over my body. I blushed and closed the scroll. I laid my head down and closed my eyes. I will only take a quick nap. I told myself before drifting off to sleep.

{WC: 730}

Hi! Was this too cute for you? Well, I want to give credit to the "Wings Of Fire Fandom Wiki: NIghtWing Section" for the segment about the NightWings. I will hopefully post another chapter this weekend or tomorrow. Love you, guys!!

Chapter 7-Part 2: Stay Safe

{Third Person POV}

Teardrop paced back and forth through the cave hoping she would find something to do other than stay in the cave for her whole life. Her father Coho hated her and didn't care about her like her Mother did. Starcharter was the best Mother. But she was killed by the SeaWings.

"Teardrop! I'm going to take a quick nap so don't do anything stupid!" Coho hissed from in the other part of the cave where the two of them would sleep.

☆○o。 。o○☆

Teardrop waited until her father was fast asleep before she planned her escape. No more keeping me in this stupid cave! Teardrop thought as she gathered her things. She strung the pouch full of her belongings around her torso and quietly snuck out of the cave. The night sky was as beautiful as Teardrop remembered. The ocean waves crashed against the shore and splashed Teardrop's talons.

"HALT!" a deep and booming voice roared.

Teardrop froze in pure terror. Slowly Teardrop turned around to face the dragon who roared. A SeaWing guard! I'm so dead! she thought.

"Please state your purpose for invading the SeaWing territory!" he hissed coming up to me.

"I-I don't know" Teardrop stuttered.

"We are going to be taking you to the SeaWing palace!" he roared seizing Teardrop's snout and her talons.

"LET GO OF MY DAUGHTER!" Teardrop's father roared angrily.

"Wake up Teardrop! The next class is starting!"

{First Person POV Teardrop}

I jumped off the ledge and flew down to the entrance of the library with Turtle slowly following behind me. Just as we landed Starflight quickly ran out of the room. Turtle and I followed him as he ran to the main area of the academy. There was a bright orange SkyWing with blue eyes as blue as the ocean stood.

"THE SKYWING!" a voice roared echoing through the vast cave.

"Peril! You came!" Clay said emerging from the crowd of dragons starting to form around the poor SkyWing.

"I thought I could find Scarlet, but now she's nowhere! I don't know where to look! I'm sorry Clay!" she said interlocking her talons with Clay's.

"Don't be sorry!" he said trying to calm her down. Tsunami came through the entrance with a snotty and protective look on her face.

"We don't have a group for you Peril! We had no idea you were coming. There's already a SkyWing in each winglet" she hissed.

Tsunami stormed out of the room muttering something under her breath. Winter stood up and started yelling something about Peril.

"She can't stay here! That dragon killed over twenty IceWIng prisoners!" he roared. I covered my face and my ears with my wings and shrunk down. This yelling is making me dizzy!

Turtle shielded me with his wings and pulled me close to his body. He must know I don't like loud noises. Especially yelling.

"Hey, it's ok Teardrop. They stopped yelling." Turtle whispered.

I uncovered my body and smiled. Turtle's emerald eyes were like jewels and they sparkled in the sunlight.

"Come on Winter! It's time for history!" Kinkajou squealed. I grabbed Turtle's talon and we both ran to the History cave.
